ALCON,
Forwarding information from OSD regarding distinguishing between child on child juvenile sexual assault and sexual problem behavior in children under the age of 12.

Great source of information to ensure we're proving a coordinated response in addressing this issue.

Standing by if you have questions.

Happy Friday, everyone,

In preparation for my participation in the congressional discussions and in response to our leadership, I put together this "cheat sheet" (first attachment) on child on child incidents involving children under the age of 12. As this process evolves we are stressing the difference between juvenile sexual assault and sexual problem behavior in children under the age of 12. We are stressing the need for a coordinated community cross-system approach that would enlist the support and expertise of SAPRO for the juvenile sexual assaults and trauma-informed evidence based care for younger children and well-coordinated victim care and support for both.

I also attached the resource items I used to inform our discussion going forward to strengthen our message to bring a holistic lens to this issue. Would be very interested in seeing anything you might be using as well.

Almost forgot, NCTSN shared these additional resources:
